

MKK GAINS SEAL OF APPROVAL AT ARCH TROPHY

Last May, technical teamwear specialists MKK Sports, were announced as the official clothing supplier to the unique Arch Trophy.

The first Arch Trophy tournament, which is hosted by Sport Arabia Ltd, took place in the United Arab Emirates last month and this year five counties were vying for the champions' title. The Pro Arch series is perfect preparation for the professional season, offering superb weather conditions and first class facilities.

MKK supplied the kit for the Sussex squad and also for the four schools who took part in the Schools' Arch Trophy. Director Roger Myall said: "The players needed specialist fabric to help keep them cool and dry in the arid conditions. Our MKK technical fabrics offered the perfect solution and we have received very positive feedback from the county players and schools' cricket coaches on their return from the UAE."

St Bede's The Dicker, Eastbourne College, Wellington and Worth were all in contention for the title of Schools' Arch Champion. This year, the tournament's first year, was won by Eastbourne College. The schools' tournament coincided with the professional Pro Arch series and the youngsters received VIP treatment during several high profile matches.

Both counties and schools were very impressed with The Arch trophy and also the high quality of MKK clothing. Winning coach, Matt Banes from Eastbourne College said: "The Arch Trophy was a fantastic experience for the young players; they enjoyed five star accommodation, great weather but most importantly top class playing facilities. The MKK kit looked very professional and gave our team a great sense of pride."

The organisation for The Arch Trophy 2009 is already underway, for more information please contact Matthew Jackson at matthew.jackson@sportarabia.co.uk

ENDS